Foreword

With the advent of the space age, the rocket has become the implement of the conquest of the universe that has been man's dream through time. As the rocket pushes outward to space, similarly do we push out into the world of men with the hope that our abilities will help to make a better world.

As man has found that his hopes for the conquest of space rely on the three stages of a rocket, so do we, in our journey to meet and conquer the obstacles of life, discover three stages through which we must pass before we are prepared to meet life's challenges.

As the rocket is launched from its solid platform of concrete, so will we start from a solid platform — the platform of education — with success in the future as our common goal.

"... so will we start from a solid platform ..."

The rocket, reaching for outer space, relies upon the assistance of trained personnel to make it a success. So do we, as students striving for knowledge, require expert aid in firmly establishing our future. Members of the faculty are the men and women who are shaping our course toward the goal of success.

Administration, Faculty, and Staff

Administration

Mr. William W. Rodgers

Mr. William W. Rodgers, serving his second year as the principal of Reading Memorial High School, has earned the admiration and respect of both faculty and students. His experience as a teacher and as an administrator has enabled him to make his second year here as successful as his first. We can be certain that under Mr. Rodgers' guidance, the qualities of efficient leadership and the record of achievement that have so distinguished our school in the past will be maintained in the years to come.

Miss Florence G. Nichols

Miss Nichols, our cheerful, friendly assistant principal and dean of girls, has been an important figure in heightening and maintaining the high standards of RMHS. To the seniors, as their class adviser, she is a guiding light. Her capable leadership is felt by all members of the various committees for dances and the senior play, and by all seniors during the hectic graduation week. Our school will always benefit greatly by Miss Nichols' presence.

Mr. Alton C. Bennett

Through his friendly but firm manner, Mr. Bennett, our assistant principal and dean of boys, has won the respect of the entire student body. During the school day, he may be seen in countless places throughout the building keeping careful watch over all activity. Although he metes out punishment to those deserving it, he also lends a sympathetic ear to students who need advice. Certainly RMHS could not do without the services of Mr. Alton C. Bennett.

OFFICE STAFF

An efficient office staff is one of the most important factors in making a well-run high school. Keeping the many records and doing the numerous jobs of a high school office keep our three able secretaries, Miss Underhill, Miss Freeman, and Miss Davis, busy. In addition to their regular work, they are always ready to help any students or visitors who come to the office window. Their work is made somewhat easier by the aid of several competent RMHS students who give up their study periods to lend assistance by answering the telephone, running errands, typing, and doing odd jobs.

FOREIGN LANGUAGES

The study of a foreign language plays an important part in the education of a student. In the French, Latin, and Spanish courses, one learns not only the language itself, but also something of the background, culture, and traditions of the countries. By reading some of the literature of a foreign country, a student can see how other people live and thus can understand them better. Since we are drawn much closer to people in other parts of the world today, this understanding is of great importance. Foreign language courses enrich our lives and are necessary to give us a liberal education.

ENGLISH

From the freshman to the senior year, our English classes at RMHS carry us into a land of literature and of knowledge. Through the reading of classics, we gain a greater understanding of our fellow man; we discover more about his way of life and understand his problems better. One objective of our English classes, to acquire an appreciation of literary masterpieces, is achieved through our reading of poetry, novels, essays, and short stories.

No English course would be complete without a study of grammar and composition. We are taught how to express our ideas in correct and interesting English.

FINE ARTS

As is necessary to a well-rounded education, RMHS offers opportunity to develop musical, artistic, and literary talents. Our well supplied library has extensive reading and reference materials to benefit the student body. Frequent musical exhibitions display the abilities of our band, orchestra, and chorus. These organizations are made up of hard-working students whose talent is a much appreciated addition to the school. Management of art media as well as an appreciation of the various art forms is offered to students who wish to develop their knowledge in this direction. All of these fine programs enrich the lives of the participating students.

To prepare students for the part they will play in scientific progress, a variety of science courses is offered at RMHS. The general science course prepares the freshmen for their sophomore year and the more advanced study of plant and animal life. The junior year offers chemistry with its study of the elements. Physics, in the senior year, finds the students learning the basic laws of the universe. For senior girls interested in nursing, an excellent anatomy course is given. We, at RMHS, are fortunate to have such an extensive science program and such a competent faculty to guide us.

Will this experiment work, Mr. Pope?

Betsy and Pete show Mr. Aldrich the site of the Battle of Fredericksburg.

With a complete and comprehensive program, the RMHS Mathematics Department has continued to further its excellent reputation. The curriculum includes several courses in fundamental mathematics which lead to the more complex study of bookkeeping to prepare the student for the business world. College preparatory courses range from elementary algebra to CP3 and prepare the student for careers in mathematics or engineering. The practical application of mathematics to daily living or the knowledge of simple and quadratic equations, trigonometric functions, slide rule techniques, and space geometry covers the needs of all pupils. RMHS students are well prepared for a world requiring mathematics.

RMHS is fortunate to have a modern, well-equipped home economics suite where girls can develop skills necessary to all homemakers. A course in clothing acquaints the student with fabrics and their use in clothing construction and fashion design. The cooking classes, after becoming acquainted with the nutritional value of foods, gain experience in planning and serving basic and tasty meals. Also included in the home-making curriculum is a new course in home and family living, which stresses the need for good management, offers a study of family relationships, child care, and personality development, and gives added instruction in foods and clothing.

Numbers, numbers everywhere.

COMMERCIAL

A well-rounded course in the commercial field for that student who plans to go out into the world of business or on to some secretarial school after graduation is available to any RMHS student. Courses in shorthand, typing, bookkeeping and consumer economics, as well as classes in actual office practice, are offered by this department. New machines make the knowledge acquired easier to apply. Girls taking the commercial course also put in time in the high school office, thus gaining practical experience. Through the efforts of the excellent teaching staff, commercial students are well prepared and well qualified to enter the business world.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

The Industrial Arts Program is arranged so that students can receive instruction in wood-working, metalworking, and graphic arts. The main duties of the boys in the print shop are to do the school printing. Mechanical drawing embraces geometric developments, intersections, auxiliary views, and advanced machine drafting. The project method is used in the wood shop. Instruction in the metal shop ranges from sheet metal work and small projects through machine work and cast foundry practice. Automotive mechanics offers a chance to study automotive functions. All Industrial Arts courses are designed to train boys in the best way possible for future years.

DRIVER EDUCATION

Willis E. Anderson, Robert W. Bronner, Derick V. Willson.

Mr. Karakashian, head of the RMHS Guidance Program, has given this department a prominent place in our school. Personal interviews with each student are a major part of the program. Two faculty members assist with this task: Miss Hart counsels the juniors and tries to help them decide early what they plan to do after graduation; Mr. Pacino advises the sophomores. All freshmen and seniors are the concern of Mr. Karakashian. Other duties of the Guidance Department include making out programs for all students, administering tests, planning occupational conferences, and keeping students posted on scholarship opportunities.

Carol Page asks Miss Hart's advice about college.

A good sense of balance.

Good sportsmanship, clean living, and excellent health are the chief aims of the RMHS Physical Education Department. In the daily schedule of classes much emphasis is placed on physical fitness. Apparatus work, tumbling, volleyball, weightlifting, and dancing, as well as practice in various team sports, help the program to achieve its purpose. This year a greater emphasis on intramural sports has given students not on regular teams a chance to participate in their favorite sports. Completing the athletic program are the interscholastic teams such as football, cross country, field hockey, basketball, ice hockey, softball, track, baseball, golf, and tennis.

The aim of the Driver Education Program, established at RMHS five years ago, is to train junior and senior students as capable drivers. The course requires thirty hours of classwork, consisting of studying a handbook, watching films, and speaking in discussions. In the classroom the student becomes acquainted with the mechanics of an automobile and learns the rules and regulations a safe and cautious driver should know. Actual experience comes from eighteen hours of observing and six hours behind the wheel. When these requirements are completed, the student, knowing the proper way to handle himself and his automobile, is ready for the road.

Congratulations to three new drivers.

Our spotless, modern kitchen is a most important part of the school. Under the direction of Mrs. Evelyn Mullen, manager, and Mrs. Lois Piper, supervisor, the cafeteria is expertly and efficiently run. Each and every school day the staff, with the help of several student volunteers, prepares and serves well-balanced, hot, tasty lunches to the students at a nominal cost. Milk and ice cream can be purchased by those students who bring their own lunches. Certainly a vote of thanks from every student should go to these people who work so hard to provide such good lunches.

What's cooking?

How's the hearing, Bonnie?

The excellent care and maintenance of our beautiful building and grounds are the responsibility of our staff of able custodians. Visitors to the school are always impressed by its clean and fresh appearance, both inside and out. This most necessary group puts in hours of hard work each day, and on many evening occasions such as sporting events, dances, meetings, and PTA's, they are on hand to keep things running smoothly. Under the watchful eye of Mr. Elmer Young, head custodian, these workers see that Reading Memorial High School is spotless from the science wing to the art room.

The rocket begins its push to outer space with the initial thrust of its first stage. We begin our formal training in the first stage of high school life. History

As the doors of Reading Memorial High School opened on September 8, 1958, we began a new phase of our school career. Since we had paid a visit to RMHS in the spring of 1958 and had met our homeroom teachers, the two assistant principals, Mr. Bennett and Miss Nichols, and the principal, Mr. Rodgers, we felt a little more at ease than if we had never before been in the building. Nevertheless, we wandered aimlessly about for the first few weeks, referring often to our maps in order to locate our rooms. Soon, however, we were in the swing of things, joining the many activities, organizations, and sports available to us and taking our place in the school.

Class election time arrived quickly, and we chose as our class officers Graham Gerade, president; Arthur Norton, vice-president; Jane Jellison, secretary; and Richard Gerrior, treasurer.

The Freshman Frolic was our first social affair in our new surroundings. Its success was made possible by the cooperation of the students, the concentrated hard work of the various committees, and the guidance of our class advisers, Mrs. Bell, Miss Donohoe, Mr. Dunbar, and Mr. Perianowicz.

In the fall, football was the important sport. Under the direction of Coach Pacino and Coach Gray, the freshman boys played excellent ball. The freshman cheerleaders were on hand for all the games. Both the football and basketball teams are looking forward to participating in varsity sports in the coming years. The girls, coached by Miss Bartlett, had an opportunity to play intramural sports. They, too, gained experience that will help them in future years.

Mid-years were a new experience to us, and as we returned from Christmas vacation, we did so with skepticism. We survived, though, and a great number of our class proved their abilities by receiving honor grades at the half year.

We have met many new and interesting situations and can look back on our first year of high school with pride at our accomplishments. We are also looking ahead to future years at RMHS and the further successes we hope to attain.

Jane and Cal receive a prize.

Shine on, harvest moon!

By the light of the harvest moon, the freshmen danced their way through an evening of fun and frivolity at their class party on October 24, 1958. The "Harvest Moon" theme was carried out by the clever decorations of a large paper moon, corn stalks and pumpkins, brown and yellow streamers, and a large, stuffed scarecrow in the center of the room. Music, in the form of the latest records, was provided by Bob Phinney. Highlighting the evening were novelty and elimination dances with records for prizes. Refreshments, consisting of coke, cake, and cookies, were enjoyed by the young dancers. The chaperones for the festive occasion included parents of class officers, Miss Nichols, and other faculty members. Mrs. Bell, Miss Donohoe, Mr. Dunbar, and Mr. Pierianowicz, our class advisers, worked diligently with the chairmen and members of each committee to provide a wonderful evening of dancing that the freshmen will long remember.

It's a hard decision.

Cross Country

The 1958 Cross Country team, coached by Mr. Aldrich, had a very respectable season, winning four of seven dual meets, and placing well in the Middlesex League and State Meets. Reading lost its first dual meet to a strong Salem team, 20-41. Mike Glynn paced the Harriers in the next two contests as they defeated Wakefield, 22-34, and Revere, 25-33. Dick Norton, Fay Converse and Dick Dunn carried the load in victories over Haverhill, 27-32, and Stoneham, 23-34. Winchester again proved to be too potent, and while Dick Dunn finished well, the team lost, 15-48. In the final dual meet, Reading was also defeated by the newly-crowned League champions, Lexington. Finishing in Varsity positions throughout these meets were Dick Converse, Jim Demenkow, Carl Bertelsen, Roy Parsons, Tom Beighley, Jim Peterson, and Stan Daly.

In a cold, wind-driven rain, the Rocket Harriers battled their neighboring teams in the Middlesex League Meet at Essex Agricultural School. Mike Glynn finished fifth for the Varsity as they took eighth place. The Junior Varsity managed to capture sixth position. The most important contest of the season, the State Meet, was held at White Memorial Stadium in Boston. Reading's boys placed fifth, but more significant, Mike Glynn became Class C champion by finishing first.

Football Rockets

Rocket football fans will not soon forget the tremendous upset season our 1959 team chalked up. Reading compiled a 7-2 record and finished third in a closely contested Middlesex League title race.

Reading dropped its opener to the powerful and confident League champions, Wakefield, but snapped back to edge Belmont, 12-8, and crush Concord, 36-16. Highly favored Woburn looked too good for Reading, but the Rockets upset the "Tanners" in an excellent demonstration of comeback football. Reading overpowered determined Andover but suffered a heartbreaking 14-12 defeat at the hands of Winchester. An unbelievable pass catch by Gigi Cavanaugh highlighted a 26-14 victory over Melrose. The "Minute Men" of Lexington were completely baffled as Bruce Parker filled the air with passes in the Rockets' only shutout. Jim Caywood tore off yardage as the Rockets brought a great season to an end by trouncing its traditional Thanksgiving Day foe, Stoneham.

Certainly great tribute must be paid to Coach Hollingsworth and his two new assistants, Coach Miksen and Coach Chapman, for their long hours drilling the boys. Well-earned credit must also go to a capable captain, Jon Olson, and his spirited team. Linemen Bruce Latham, Dick Mansur, Sal D'Alessandro, Ed Winkler, Doug Murphy, Phil MacDonald, Ken Olson, Dick Dalton, Rufus Clark, and Captain Olson proved equally adept on defense as they were at opening holes for their driving backs, Jim Caywood, Ronnie Chess, Gerry Burnham, and Jim Cavanaugh. Two fine field generals, Bob Burpee and Bruce Parker, were always on hand with the right play.

"Forward, March!" and thirty-four high-stepping girls move on to the football field at the half, to perform their precision routine. Under the direction of Bette Hawe and Laurel Calvin, the squad spreads out over the field to snap through fast twirling acts and intricate dance steps. The snappy black and white uniforms, accented by the white outfits of the leaders, intermingle with the red band uniforms to make a smart-looking pep squad. Touchdowns during the game merit a special baton tossing act by Dorothea Faucette.

In addition to performing at football games, the Baton Squad this year participated in several parades and had a prominent part in the Football Follies.

Leading the student body in numerous cheers, yelling as points were added to the home team's score, doing various jumping and dancing routines, and representing our school at football and basketball games were the RMHS Cheerleaders. Chosen for their rhythm, skill, and coördination, these girls gracefully maneuvered the cheering stunts to help the teams on to victory. At pep rallies and at the games, the Cheerleaders kept the students' spirit and enthusiasm high. New cheers such as "Rockets Reading," "Syncopated Rhythm," and "Victory Spellout" were new contributions from the peppy Cheerleaders of the 1958-1959 season.

The lively RMHS Band has set a precedent by going Ivy League. Under the direction of Mr. James Roth, the band spirited our football games by putting on intricate half time shows and by playing marching songs during time-outs. As the marching season ended, the band turned its attention from the football field to the concert hall. With a new array of musical literature, the spring concert of May 8 was presented. For experience in public performances and for coordinated playing with another band, Reading arranged an exchange concert with Athol, Massachusetts, playing at Athol on March 6 and at home on March 20.

Cheerleaders' Dance

Dancing beneath the stars.

December 12, 1958, was a memorable day in the lives of RMHS students. The cafeteria in a matter of a few hours became a paradise in pink. The glittering half moon covered with angel hair, the star-studded streamers, and the artificial snow on the floor presented a scene of beauty. The color scheme of pink, rose, and red was accented by lights in the same hues.

Chaperones for the evening included faculty members and parents of the cheerleaders, all of whom enjoyed an evening of Jeff Carleton's music as much as the many dancers did.

Entertainment during intermission was provided by The Three Chords, The Two Tones, alumnus Tony Laschi, The Classics, and the Cheerleaders themselves, who sang "The Christmas Song" and "I'm in the Mood for Love."

After the Cheerleaders presented gifts to Miss Nichols and Debbie Gilbert, activity resumed with the traditional dance spotlighting the football queen and her court.

Football Banquet

Coach Hawkes and Mr. Turner give their undivided attention.

A word or two from Debbie.

The annual Football Banquet, attended by all the squads, the cheerleaders, and the senior members of the Band and Baton Squad, was held on December 11, 1958, to honor our successful team. Dr. William Carruthers, who provided the boys with spiritual leadership before each game, school officials, and the various coaches were among those occupying the head table. The decorations, done by the art staff with Miss Roy's supervision, centered around a miniature goal post inscribed with the number of wins for the season.

Following the dinner, Mr. Stanley Bondalovitch spoke to the guests on good sportsmanship, admonishing them to follow the rules of fair play at all times. Bruce Parker was heralded as the most improved player of the season, while James Caywood received the Ingersoll Award. Then the senior lettermen were awarded their jackets. The announcement was made that next year's Rocket team will be led by Clifford Ash and David Carroll.

Congratulations, Jim!

When the curtain opened on The Happiest Days of Your Life on November 21, 1958, weeks of rehearsal and preparation were brought to a climax. Mr. Spencer, the cast, the student directors, and the various committees all worked hard to make the senior play the success it was.

The play, a farce in three acts by John Dighton, takes place in England after the war when many schools have lost their buildings. Hilary Hall, a boys' school, has just moved back to its former premises, and all seems well until St. Swithins, a girls' school with no buildings, moves in to share facilities. The ensuing trouble in trying to keep the parents from learning the situation is complicated by the dislike between Miss Whitchurch, principal of St. Swithins, and Mr. Pond, head of Hilary Hall; by the cold feelings of Mr. Billings for Miss Gossage, who makes no secret of her chasing him; and by the romance which arises between Mr. Tassell and Miss Harper, hindered at every turn by Barbara Cahoun, a pupil at St. Swithins. The result is an hilarious, mixed-up comedy.

The audience's laughter and applause gave to all who had helped in the production a gratifying reward and a real sense of accomplishment.

Prompters Linda Hubbard and Priscilla Hynes.

The Reading Memorial High School Chapter of the National Honor Society is among our most important school activities. The Society is proud of its unceasing efforts to promote and maintain the high standards of character, leadership, scholarship, and service that are necessary for success today. Every boy or girl who has maintained a scholastic average of 87 percent through his junior year and who has been judged by the faculty as possessing qualities of capable leadership, trustworthiness, and service to the school is eligible for membership.

In the spring of each year the new members are inducted into the National Honor Society in an impressive ceremony. During this ceremony the standards of membership are explained and the history of the Society is read. At this time each new member lights a candle to symbolize the light of learning.

Certainly the Society is one of our most honored traditions at Reading Memorial High School.

What do you think of this?

A solemn moment in our lives.

Under the guidance of a new faculty adviser, Mr. Ham, and led by Council officers — Bruce Latham, president; Betsy Smith, vice-president; Gail Howard, secretary; and William Herrick, treasurer — the Student Council, as the representative of the student body, plays a major part in Reading High School's activity. The Council kept busy this year revising the constitution, maintaining a lunch room patrol, sponsoring a dance, providing a student bulletin board, taking charge of the paid assemblies, and holding meetings. The Council, which meets every Wednesday, is attended by homeroom representatives and alternates, class officers, team captains, and the heads of various clubs. As a new experience, the Council this year invited several Foreign Exchange students to attend our high school for a day and to spend a weekend with families of high school students. The Student Council has once again proved itself worthy of the distinction given it.

What did you say?

We have gone through the first stage of our flight into life and find ourselves in the sophomore class. The second stage is a period of trial and testing as we try to discover what we shall set as our goals. This is a year when we develop character and stature.

History

On September 8, 1958, we once again entered Reading Memorial High School, looking forward to another outstanding year. This time there was more confidence in our walk, for we surely knew our way through the labyrinth of corridors and were well accustomed to all kinds of tests. No longer were we wide-eyed and confused freshmen, but sophomores, knowing and wise from our mistakes and blunders of the past year.

First of all we elected our class officers. Richard Horton was handed the gavel for the second time, and Kenneth Olson was chosen his able assistant. The job of taking notes at class meetings fell to Kathleen Meehan, and the task of collecting dues again went to Robert Lincoln.

Coming next on the agenda was the sophomore dance, capably taken care of by expert committees under the guidance of class advisers, Miss Dagdigian, Miss Andrian, Mr. Bond, and Mr. Myers. The theme chosen was an ocean floor fantasy with Tom Weston's orchestra supplying the music.

On the football field we watched a number of our classmates playing on jayvee or varsity squads; others were twirling batons or adding to the musical enjoyment of the crowd. These sophomores represented their class capably and skillfully.

With the arrival of winter, the basketball season opened, and many of our classmates were playing basketball on both boys' and girls' squads.

After mid-years were safely over and the half year grades were averaged, we were proud to see how scholastically able our class was, for many of us attained honors and high honors. By this time, too, the activities were in full swing, and a number of sophomores could be found in a variety of clubs and organizations.

As spring brought about the start of outdoor activities, sophomores eagerly joined baseball, track, golf, and softball teams; and under the direction of experienced coaches, our school again gained recognition for its fine record.

And so another year is over. It has been a memorable one, certainly, but we are anticipating an even better year as juniors when the doors of RMHS open to admit us for the third time.

Sophomore Hop

Ruler of this undersea kingdom.

Dancing in Neptune's garden.

On the evening of November 14, 1958, the doors of Reading Memorial High School opened to reveal an undersea kingdom. It seemed as if Neptune himself had transformed the everyday surroundings into an ocean fantasy. Through the efforts of the decoration committee, headed by Martha Willson, the setting seemed to come alive with countless creatures of the sea. Gaily decorated fish swam in and out of an ocean of colored streamers, while a mermaid, dominating the scene, ruled in majestic splendor. The sophomores danced to the music of Tom Weston and his band amid the beauty of this make-believe kingdom.

This successful dance was the result of careful planning and preparation on the part of the students and their advisers. Many afternoons of hard work saw their fulfillment when the various committees viewed their accomplishments. The Sophomore Hop of 1958 will certainly be remembered as one of the social highlights of the season.

The pause that refreshes.

Coach Hawkes and Captain Livingston discuss plans for the coming season.

Basketball Rockets

Hindered by the loss of Roger Hardy, one of the co-captains, the 1959 Rockets were unable to reach their expected position in the Middlesex League this season. However, led by Richard Livingston, the Rockets frequently proved to be a thorn in the side of many of their opponents. Robert Holt, the leading scorer for the team, helped to keep the squad in competition for at least part of every game.

Under a new coach, Walter Hawkes, the boys put in many long hours of diligent practice in order to improve their court techniques. This practice revealed its worth on many occasions in the rebounding of Douglas Murphy, the play-making of James Caywood, and the outstanding and sometimes even flashy play of Kenneth Mullen.

In writing a complete article about the 1959 team, one could not leave out the excellent play of the sophomore unit which bolstered the varsity on more than one occasion. If the final game with Stoneham is an omen of better things to come, this sophomore unit of Kenneth Olson, Richard Horton, Donald Herrick, Edward Michalosky, and Richard Bordeau will place Reading High School among the top contenders in the Middlesex League during the next two seasons. With experienced juniors and sophomores ready for next year's team, the basketball situation is bound to improve for Reading High.

A great deal of credit belongs to the hard-playing seniors, who at all times displayed a great deal of school and competitive spirit and good sportsmanship throughout the season. Best of luck to the 1960 Basketball Rockets for a successful year.

Serious discussion.

Girls' Basketball

With the benefit of Miss Bartlett's fine coaching, the girls' basketball team had one of its most successful seasons in many years. The offensive playing of Carol Wadman, Ellen Perry, and Jane Snook, combined with the defensive work of Gail Howard, Bonnie March, and Joanne Robinson, made up a well balanced squad which provided tough competition for every team they met. After losing several games by very small margins, the team, co-captained by Gail Howard and Ellen Perry, won victories over the alumnae, Malden, North Reading, Wakefield, and Woburn. Carol Wadman was high scorer for the season with 157 points. Ellen Perry was second with 121 points. The junior varsity, too, managed to produce a winning season.

The girls should continue their winning ways next year with such experienced players as Jane Snook, Sandra Orton, Donna Runge, Eileen March, and Louise Lassieur as members of the team.

Girls' Athletics

The aims of the program of girls' athletics are to engender good sportsmanship and competitive school spirit.

Once again we have a Girls' Leaders Club from which Miss Bartlett can receive assistance for such jobs as attendance taking, spotting for tumbling and apparatus work, refereeing and umpiring for intramural sports. The officers of this club are as follows: Ellen Perry, president; Susan Clark, vice-president; Gail Howard, secretary; and Barbara Miller, treasurer.

With the arrival of spring, the girls' softball team will be out to better its record of four wins and two losses. Many varsity letter winners will be returning, and so we should have a winning season in the offing.

For those girls who do not try out for varsity sports, intramural games in volleyball, basketball, and softball are offered.

This past fall saw the start of a field hockey team. The season was spent reviewing fundamentals, playing a few scrimmages, and getting ready for a varsity schedule next year.

Jane, Ellen, Carol, Bonnie, Joanne, and Gail show the variety of girls' spring sports.

Hard work, Charlie?

Under the expert coaching of Mr. Logan, the Weightlifting Club met on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday each week during activity period. This is the second year this group has been in existence at RMHS. Prospective members must be physically fit and pass a medical examination. In choosing the members for the club, Mr. Logan gives preference to football players selected by Coach Hollingsworth, because the purpose of this organization is to keep members of athletic groups in condition during the off season. Some of next year's football heroes were sent in for a while to help condition them for what is to come. At their meetings the boys, who regularly number ten, participated in competition among themselves. They worked hard at lifting the long bar and weights and succeeded in lifting one hundred and fifty-five pounds. During the year many people often dropped in to view this body-building course.

Although any boy who wished to could join the apparatus and tumbling group this year, next year's membership will be limited to apparatus leaders and to those boys who might be willing to take part in an exhibition. The group, which is headed by Coach Hawkes, met weekly on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday during the months of December, January, and February.

The Apparatus and Tumbling Club was formed this year to develop leaders for physical education classes. The group is mainly for apparatus, but the boys took up tumbling at first to help them maintain balance and to learn safety when they advanced to work on apparatus. The parallel bars, the rings, the ropes, the long horse, and the horizontal bars are all obstacles to be overcome. Although it was only an experimental group this year, the club hopes to be able to put on an exhibition next year.

Hockey

Interest in hockey at Reading High School has been steadily growing. Two years of informal hockey received so much support that this year hockey became an organized sport with Mr. Roewer as coach. The team got off to a rather poor start by dropping its opener to Winchester by a close 3-2 score and losing the next three contests to Wakefield, Belmont, and Stoneham. However, the icemen came back to defeat Lexington 3-2 and battled New Prep B to a 4-4 tie. A consistently powerful Melrose team defeated Reading 7-0 in the next match. The Rocket sextet concluded its season with a real show of strength in a victory over Marblehead by a 6-4 score.

This year's hockey team had three offensive lines. The first line — Captain Bruce Parker, Gigi Cavanaugh, and Pat Faucette — led the scoring. Parker was the hard-hitting playmaker ably supported by his two wingers. The second offensive line — Ralph Lawrence, Ronnie Blake, and Bob Dall — carried on with the same aggressive spirit when relieving. Burton Long, Peter Gillon, and Jack Morand gained strength and experience whenever spelling the other two lines. Right winger Harold Melanson frequently proved himself a valuable substitute in the two lines. Goalie Andy Beliveau was probably the busiest man on the team. His replacement was Dan McCarron. Stalwarts for the defense were Jon Olson and Barry Stevens. Dave Evans, Phil Broeg, and Paul Sheridan rounded out the defensive lineup.

The hockey team gained a great deal of experience this season, as did the junior varsity and freshmen squads, and Reading looks forward to membership in the new Middlesex Hockey League next season.

Don't let that puck get through!

LIBRARY CLUB

First row: Georgia Parkhurst, Sharon Dooley, Carol Halfyard, Muriel Peterson, Linda Hanley, Nancy Moore, Marilyn Christensen. Second row: Marian Dickman, Edna Hunt, Linda Cagnola, Walter Kaminsky, Gloria Poore, Katherine Chase, Muriel Duff.

The Library Club, which meets on the first Friday of each month, helps Mrs. MacDonald, our librarian, to provide the students with an attractive and well run library. The only qualification for joining this service group is that each individual can devote at least two periods a week to library work and must complete one library project each month. The activities in which this club participated this year were numerous. First of all was the observance of National Book Week, at which time the library held contests and had many interesting displays. Other activities included in the program were the round-table discussion program on "science fiction" and the Library Club Christmas program. The greatest undertakings of the club this year were the publication of the Library News Letter and visits to another library and a museum. The Library Club certainly performs a much needed service for the school.

It's approved!

EIGHTH PERIOD TYPING CLASS

This year a new activity was instituted by the Commercial Department. Under the direction of Miss Reed, many juniors and seniors took part in a successful experimental activity and learned the fundamentals of typing. The course was open to juniors and seniors wishing to supplement their education with a knowledge of typing.

The class was held three times a week on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. Students who took the course did so for only one-half year so that others could participate in the activity. Many students learned a skill which doubtless will be invaluable to them in the future. Those electing typing were taught how to type a term paper and a business letter.

Although many eager freshmen and sophomores signed up for Eighth Period Typing, unfortunately they were unable to take part because of the lack of space. We certainly hope that this activity will continue next year.

TEACHERS' TYPISTS

First row: Joyce Meikle, Deanna Burley, Linda Smith, Delma McMahon, Rheta McManus, Kathryn Doherty. Second row: Jean Milley, Ruth Avery, Shirley Toner, Diane Witham, Caroline Gibson, Andrea Beliveau.

The Teachers' Typists, an indispensable group of girls who are taking a commercial course, are directed by Miss Reed and Mr. Lorden. The qualifications for becoming a member of this organization are that each girl must be neat and accurate in her typing and she must be always up to date in her class work. Each member of the Teachers' Typists is assigned to one or more teachers for whom she does typing and performs other clerical tasks. In addition to doing work for teachers, the girls sometimes help out the office staff by typing necessary school material, and they also put in time filing for the Guidance Department. Some of the members of this organization are chosen to type the copy for the Pioneer. The fortunate teachers who have these efficient future secretaries are certainly most grateful to the Teachers' Typists for having their work made somewhat easier.

MUSIC THEORY

First row: John Thompson, Jean Shaw, Mr. Roth, adviser; Anne Lautzenheiser, Marion Moodie. Second row: Daniel Putnam, John Bacon, Craig Brandt, Frank Hamilton.

One of the new activities instituted this year at RMHS is a class in Music Theory, which meets every Monday afternoon during eighth period. The group includes about ten high school musicians who play instruments in the band or orchestra. The purpose of this interesting class is to teach students the basic mechanics of music and the principles of harmony. Under the able direction of Mr. Roth, the members have discovered how to analyze songs and other musical compositions so that they can break the selections down into their component parts. The participants have also learned how to recognize the different types of chords comprising these selections. By studying the basic chord structures and the reasoning behind the harmonic progressions of musical writers, the musicians of this group are now able to compose songs on the patterns of the masters they have studied as well as to write original compositions.

All right, everyone, open your mouths and sing!

MUSIC ACTIVITIES

The Music Department, under the combined batons of Mr. Oliver and Mr. Roth, has developed and branched into new fields. For the many skilled musicians in the student body, the new areas have proved very successful. The most active group, the Dance Band, has had three engagements: the Teen Council Dance, the Junior High School Student Council Dance, and the State Drama Festival Dance. The only requirement for membership is the ability to play an instrument suitable for dance band work. The experience with dance band literature is in itself most valuable.

The other new section of the Music Department is the Orchestra. It is in its second year of existence in RMHS yet its first year of musical accomplishment. The music literature of the orchestra is sufficiently difficult to warrant much practice and to acquaint each student thoroughly with music literature of this type.

For students with an interest in vocal music, the Chorus provides an excellent method for expression. There are presently two mixed chorus groups which join together for such performances as the Christmas Assembly and the Music Assembly on April 14.

All these organizations provide not only a great deal of information about music in its various forms, but also entertainment for its performers as well as its listeners.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA

A new activity to join RMHS this year is the organization of the Future Teachers of America, which is open to all girls interested in the field of teaching. Advised by Miss Dagdigian and sponsored by the Reading Teachers' Association, this group meets on Fridays to explore the possibilities of careers in teaching and related fields. On their list of activities and accomplishments are oral reports on colleges and universities in New England where students can prepare for teaching, a visit to classes at the Birch Meadow Elementary School, the operation of a coat check service at the home basketball games, assistance to the Eastern Middlesex Association for Retarded Children in their drive for funds, and participation in discussions on various aspects of education.

To preside over the FTA meetings, the following girls were elected officers of the club: Linda Hubbard, president; Karen Johnson, vice-president and treasurer; and Priscilla Hynes, secretary.

Do you think we'll ever make it?

Research helps us find the type of teaching we want.

First row: Frances Platt, Georgia Parkhurst, Sharon Dooley, Carol Sidelinker, Martha Russell, Lois Rogers, Marcia Green, Elizabeth Hovey. Second row: Mary Fitzpatrick, Carolyn Kehoe, Mary Lu Carroll, Susan Hull, Linda Manchester, Judith Richardson, Linda Hanley. Third row: Susan Senecal, Linda Wallin, Karen Hansen, Marilyn Foley, William Locke, Robert Petrucci, Elizabeth Look, Pamela Phillips.

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

To gain a deeper insight into the situations and problems facing the world today is one of the aims of the International Affairs Club. Here students are able to express their views on the international situation. These discussions help the students to develop an attitude of hope toward cooperation in international affairs under peace and freedom. In learning about the governments of other nations, the members will become more appreciative of the rights, the protections, and the responsibilities which American democracy provides and exacts.

In order to belong to this club, the student must have a genuine interest in the development of foreign affairs. We hope that through participation in an organization of this type the young people, who are the hope of the future, will broaden their interests and develop a better understanding of the events that go to make up the world situation.

DRAMATIC CLUB

The Dramatic Club, directed by Mr. Spencer and Mr. Bond, is designed to furnish an opportunity for interested students to participate in any phase of dramatic work, whether it be make-up, stage craft, directing, or acting. Early in the year William Locke was elected president; Wendy Russell, vice-president; Beverly Driscoll, secretary; and Jeffrey Smith, treasurer. To become a member of the club, a student must demonstrate talent at a tryout. The entire club then votes on him. The greatest single undertaking of the year was the Drama Festival, for Reading, as host, had not only to prepare a play, but also to make all plans for the day-long preliminary in February. The members also worked busily throughout the year on the traditional Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Memorial Day Assemblies, at which they provided the student body with truly inspiring programs. A one-act play in April rounded out a very successful season for the Dramatic Club.

Have gun; will act.

Mr. Spencer discusses technique with Bill Locke.

An exciting moment — even at rehearsal.

Do you suppose he's dead?

DRAMA FESTIVAL

On February twenty-first, Reading High welcomed seven other high schools for preliminary competition in the Massachusetts Drama Festival. Each school presented a one-act play or part of a longer play. After five performances had been completed, a dinner-dance was held for RMHS students and those visiting from other schools. Then the final three plays were presented. While the judges were making their decisions, many RMHS students took part in a gala talent show which everyone greatly enjoyed. When the decisions were announced, the hard work of Mr. Spencer, the cast, and committees seemed well worthwhile, for Reading's play, The Mystery of the Silver-Backed Hairbrush, was one of the three chosen to enter the state finals on March 6 and 7 at John Hancock Hall in Boston. Two members of our cast, Bill Locke and Jeremy McRell, were also rewarded for their performances by being chosen among the fourteen best actors from all the plays.

The finishing touches.

The thrust of our rocket is now stable. Our confidence is high and our goals are set. The junior year is the final thrust of our education-based voyage into life. This is a year when our thoughts turn ahead to the realization of the goals that are near at hand.

Will these juniors ever make it to class?

Count your change, Gail.

Can't you find the number, Dottie?

Let's get this algebra straight, Mr. Logan.

Class of 1960

Seated: Richard Saylor, Nancy Saylor. Standing: Robert Livingston, Robert Holt.

History

Having passed the third post in our race to graduation, we juniors are almost home. During the first lap, we became acquainted with the building, the faculty, and the various courses of study. By the time we passed the half-way mark, we hit our stride and began to pick up speed. The schedule now included more homework and more extracurricular activities. Entirely new courses were available to us in our third year of high school, and many of us enrolled in classes of Driver Education, Chemistry, and United States History.

The election of class officers is always a busy and exciting time. This year all our candidates were returned to office. Again we find Bob Holt as president; Ricky Saylor, vice-president; Nancy Saylor, secretary; and Bob Livingston, treasurer.

As juniors we did well scholastically with a great many from our class on the honor roll. We did well in sports, too. Dick Dunn was chosen to head the track team, and Dave Carroll and Cliff Ash were elected football co-captains for next year. A large number of our class members participating in school sports contributed to the success and popularity of the teams. We can really be proud, too, of the many juniors in the Band, Baton Squad, and Cheerleaders, who helped to boost school spirit.

Selected as finalists for the Foreign Student Exchange Program were Carolyn Anderson, Eileen March, Bill Locke, and Bill Reed. One of these fortunate candidates will spend the summer in another country.

Socially our year has been more successful than ever before. Our first prom was, of course, fabulous—complete with orchestra, low lights, and spring formals. Presenting the Junior-Senior Reception was our next major project. All the juniors worked hard to make the night an enjoyable one for the seniors.

Although each of the three years has been special in its own way, our senior year will soon offer to us our greatest challenge. We are anticipating this best year of high school and are planning to make it even more successful than our first three years have been.

Junior Prom

Nothing but the best — the Barons.

April Love.

On April 25, 1958, the juniors entered a magic world of pastel flowers for the annual Junior Prom. The everyday atmosphere of the cafeteria had been transformed into a garden of yellow daffodils and pink apple blossoms. Although the outside world was cold and gray, inside a breath of spring had appeared, and the mood of "April Love" had taken over.

Herbie Wayne's orchestra provided the music, and the couples danced until intermission. Refreshments were then served, and the guests listened to and enjoyed various forms of entertainment.

When eleven-thirty approached, signaling the time to leave, it was obvious from the faces of all that they had thoroughly enjoyed their evening and would remember the occasion for years to come.

The sincere effort of the many committee members, the help of the class advisers, and the cooperation of all the juniors made this Junior Prom a highlight of the year.

Time out.

Spring harmonizing
by The Two Tones.

Where's that note?

Passing in review.

Captain Peterson.

Golf

After beginning the 1958 golf season with a slow start, the Reading High School golf team piled up a list of victories and placed second in the G.B.I. League. At the end of the season, Reading had won 8 and lost 2. Captain Bob Peterson was an inspiration, winning all of his matches all year.

The following were the scores of each game, Reading's score coming first: with Melrose, 2-7; with Woburn, 9-0; with Wakefield, 3-6; with Stoneham, 7½-1½; with Winchester, 8-1; with Melrose, 7½-1½; with Woburn, 9-0; with Wakefield, 6-3; with Winchester, 5-4; and with Stoneham, 7½-1½. All home games were played at Meadowbrook Golf Club.

This year's team, under Captain Jim Peterson, brother of last year's captain, will again be playing Middlesex League teams. Good luck to them.

Baseball

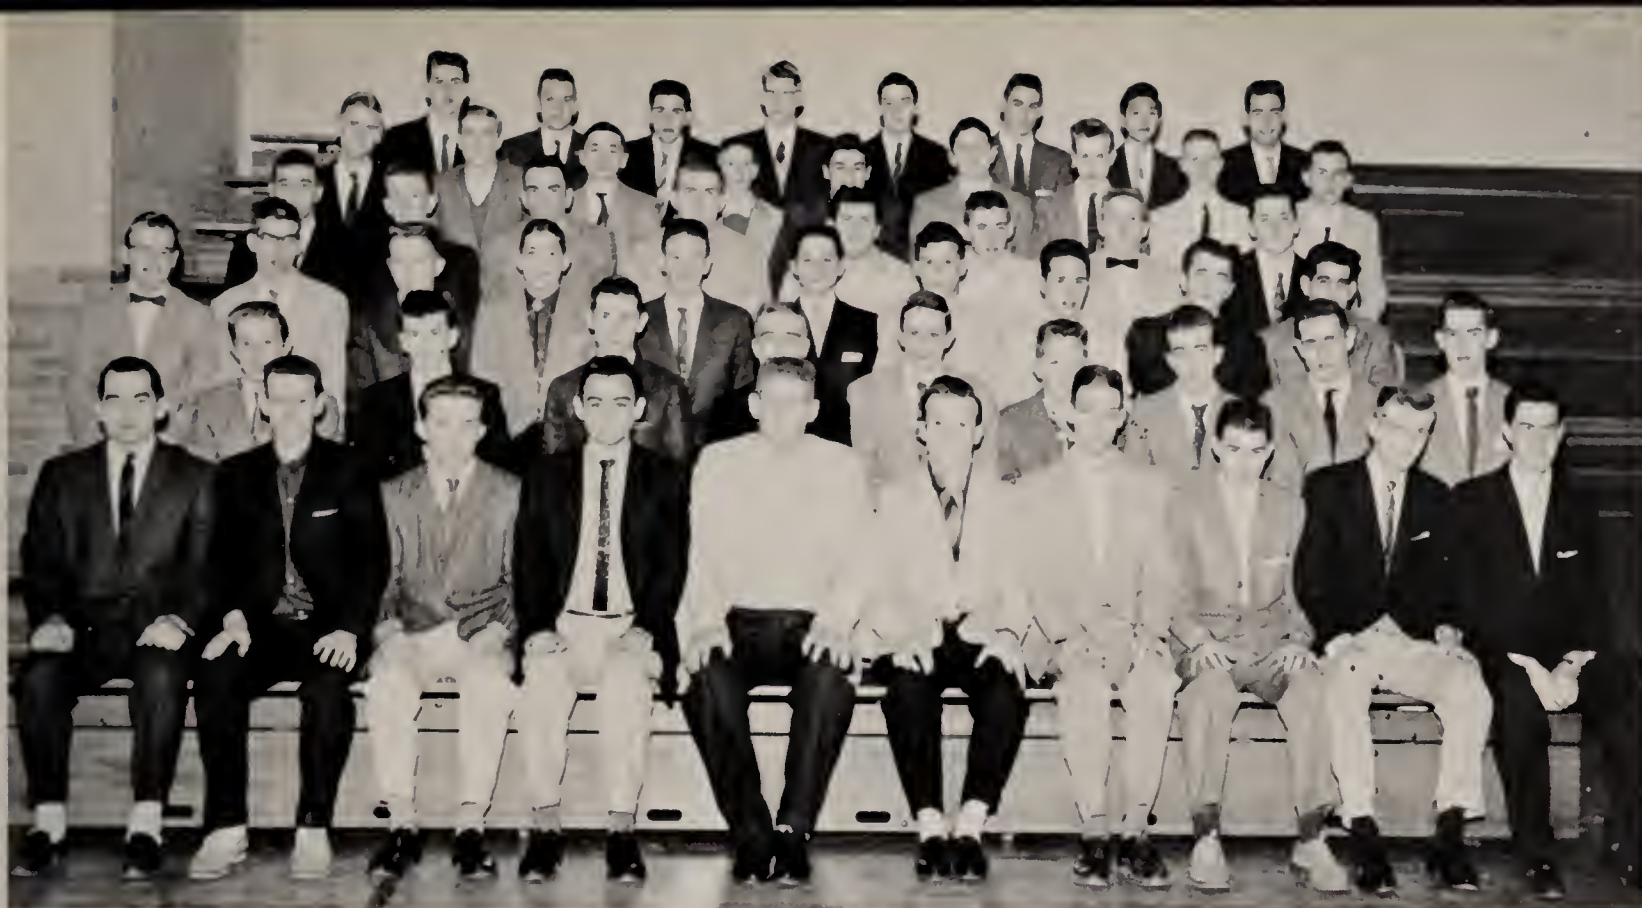

With the coming of spring, Reading High School men can be seen out on the baseball diamond every day practicing hard to better the good record set by last year's team. Before the weather permitted, the boys made good use of the gym where they benefited from the intensive practice sessions. Baseball has been one of the most popular sports at Reading Memorial High School for several years, both for the qualities of team play and sportsmanship it furnishes and for the challenge it presents. Although the team has lost many of its varsity lettermen, it looks forward to a successful season under the leadership of its capable captain, Bruce Parker, and the skillful coaching of Mr. Pacino.

Looking ahead to its second year in the new Middlesex League schedule, the track team hopes to do as well this year at it did last. The 1958 team earned a commendable 5-3 dual meet record and placed well in the large meets. Reading also gave a good account of itself at the St. John's and Belmont relays in which the boys competed.

With a large group of candidates made up of last year's lettermen and other team members, as well as new pros- pects, Reading will be out to challenge the League's best. Early in March the team began practice in preparation for the coming meets. Under the direction of Mr. Aldrich and

Mr. Garland, our competent track coaches, the team mem- bers learn the various skills of their individual events.

Reading has seven dual meets scheduled for the 1959 season. The team will also compete in the Middlesex League Meet and the State Meet at White Memorial Sta- dium in Boston. Reading is sponsoring for the first time this year an invitational decathlon which is open to all the teams in the Middlesex League. To Captain Mike Glynn and the rest of the team go our wishes for another success- ful year of track.

Well, what do you know! He made it!

SCIENCE AND RADIO CLUBS

Heading the Science Club this year are Philip Dole, president; Philip Broeg, vice-president; Reginald Peters, secretary; and Paul Riley, treasurer. Members of the club meet every Wednesday with Mr. Pope, faculty adviser. The purpose of the Science Club is to offer to students of our high school an opportunity to exercise the knowledge and interest they may have in the fields of science. On March twenty-fifth, the members of the club presented a Science Fair, their greatest accomplishment of the year. Individual projects in the field of general science, biology, chemistry, and physics were displayed.

Affiliated with the Science Club is the Radio Club. Officers are William Cashman, president; Philip Dole, vice-president; Leo Sheehan, secretary; treasurer; and Philip Broeg, trustee. This year the members hope to complete Radio Station K1HOA and erect a twelve-foot six-meter beam on the roof of the school.

CAMERA CLUB

During activity period on Fridays, the Reading High School Camera Club meets with its adviser, Mr. Bronner, to discuss pictures and prints that the members have produced. These discussions lead to an improvement of technique, the major aim of the organization. Members are not required to own cameras, since the club itself owns two, but they must have a sincere interest in photography and a desire to improve their work. An achievement credited to this year's club is the acquisition of a section of the display case beside the office where members can post their best pictures. The yearly work includes taking pictures for the Pioneer and Hi-Lites, and taking pictures of special subjects for the purpose of comparison. Future activities include entering national photo contests and completing a dark room.

The officers of the Camera Club are as follows: Robert Petrucci, chief shutterbug; and Brad Smith, assistant chief shutterbug.

Make sure it's adjusted all right.

Not bad — for an amateur.

PRINTER'S DEVILS

Under the direction of Mr. Wales, this activity produces all the printed matter needed in the school administration and associated organizations. Members of the Printer's Devils must be dependable, for much of the work has to be accomplished without supervision and must be done on time. The boys must also have an understanding of printing.

The Printer's Devils meet every activity period in order to finish the many forms and record cards that the school uses. Printing tickets and such for special school functions is also done if the schedule at the time allows it.

The greatest undertaking this year was the setting up of a metal shop area in the drafting room. This new metal shop is an instructive addition to eighth period activities.

In addition to performing a constructive service for the school, the Printer's Devils gain a greater understanding of printing and learn how to work alone.

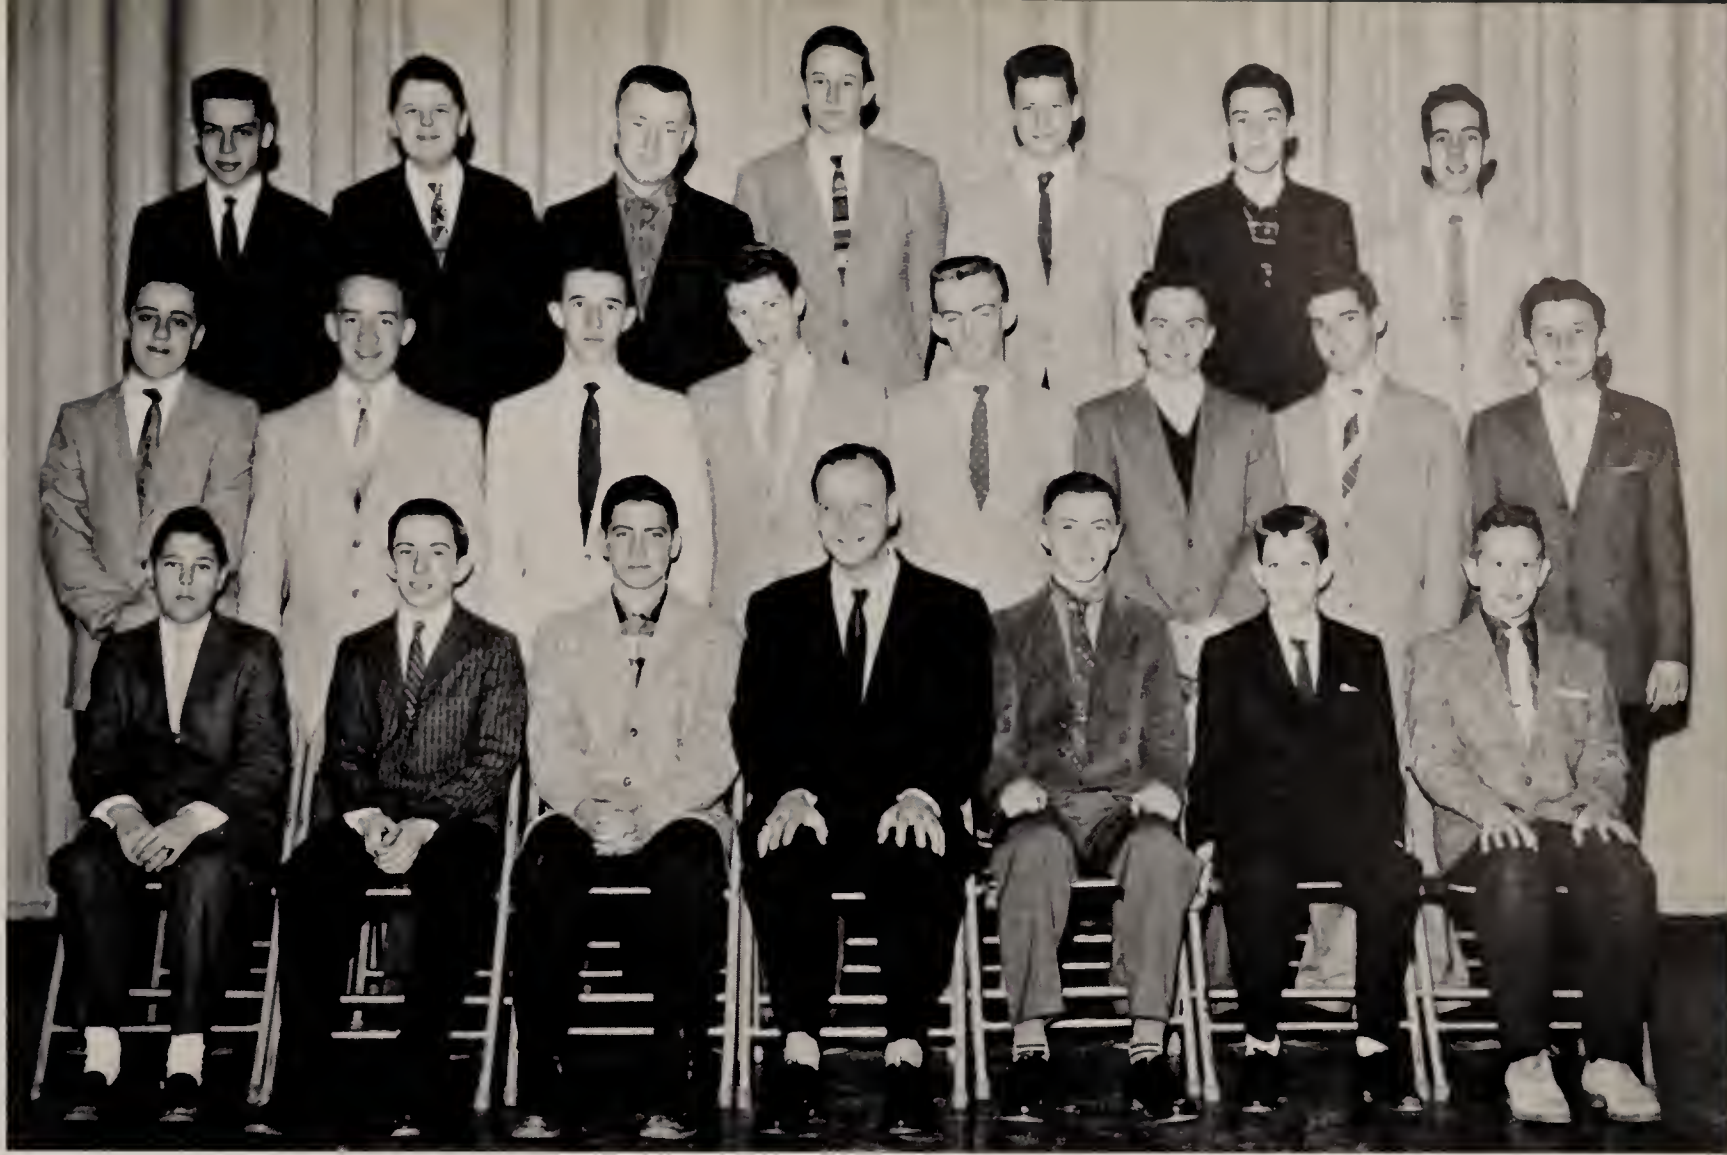

First row: William Shaw, Mr. Wales, adviser; Norman Goodwin. Second row: Robert Rogers, Daniel Richardson, Donald Forsberg.

PROJECTION CREW

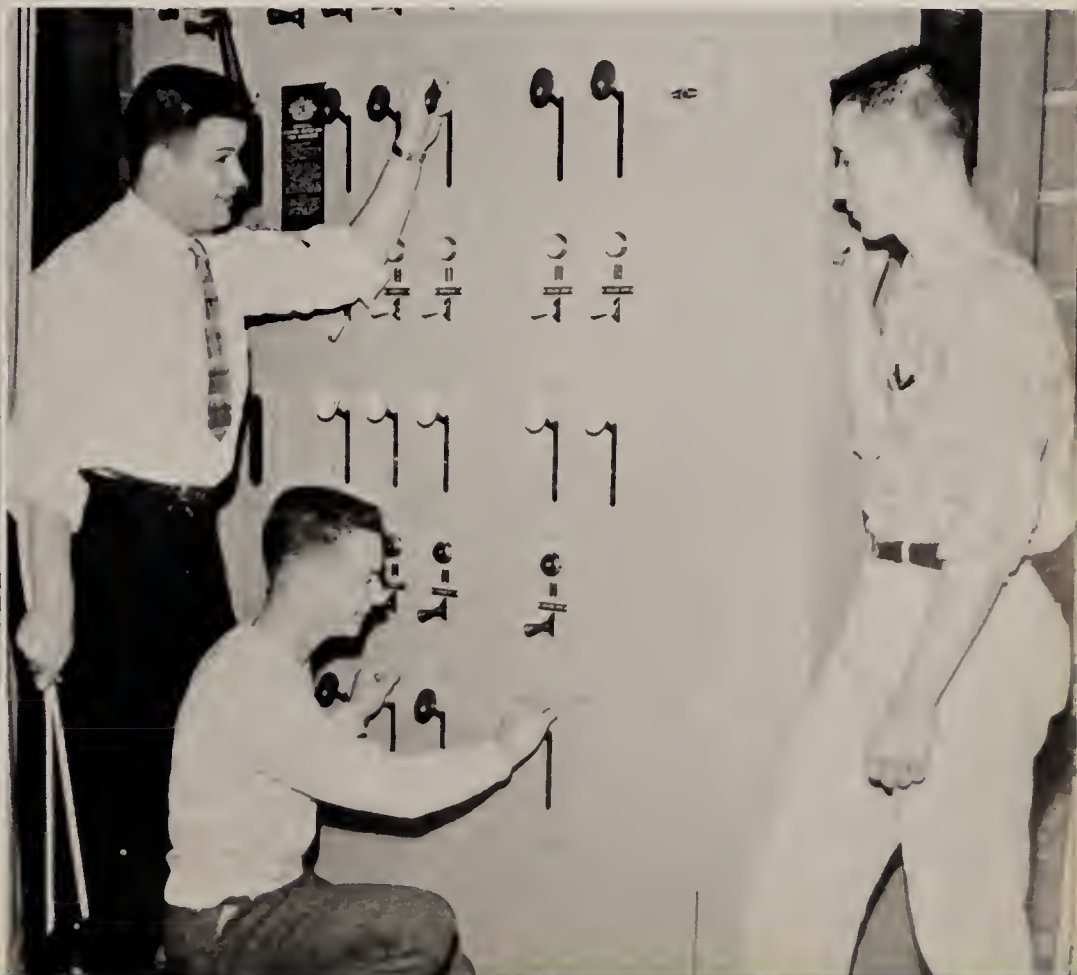

The officers of the Projection Crew this year were Reginald Peters, president; Barry Stevens and Theodore Nigro, vice-presidents; and Chester Hopkins, student adviser. The crew is composed of a group of hard working boys who take charge of the maintenance and operation of the school's audio-visual equipment. These are the boys who are always running up and down the backstage stairs between the light switches and the catwalk trying to produce the desired lighting effects. Under the guidance of a faculty adviser, Mr. Bron-ner, members of the Projection Crew supervise the use of tape recorders, film projectors, and various other pieces of equipment. Other specific duties include setting up microphones, lighting the auditorium, and operating the curtains for plays and assemblies. The boys are also responsible for obtaining from the movie companies films requested by faculty members. Reading High School certainly owes a vote of thanks to this valuable organization.

Reggie and Barry learn the intricacies of operating the movie projector.

How will I ever learn to pull the right lever at the right time?

To Norway...Foreign Student

Meet Peter Stevenson, member of the class of 1959, Reading's representative abroad this last year. The American Field Service sent him to Frondheim, Norway, where he spent five months living with a host family, attending school, and learning about the country. These trips are made possible through the work of a committee of townspeople and teachers who organize the program and the annual drive for funds. Pete has brought back many new ideas and is frequently called upon to speak about his experiences and about his impressions of Norway at various organizations.

Pete reminisces about his experiences in Norway.

"What an experience — a class fishing trip on the fjord."

"Sitting around listening to records reminded me of home."

"At the class Christmas celebration, I lit the candles."

Exchange Program...From the Philippines

Since 1954, Reading High School has participated in a foreign student exchange program called the American Field Service. By sending students to Europe, the Far and Middle East, South America, and Australia to live, and by bringing foreign teenagers to live in United States communities, this program endeavors to further its purpose to increase understanding among nations. This year our charming good-will ambassador is Miss Susana Carretas from the Philippines. She lives with the Platts and is enrolled as a senior at RMHS, although in her home she attends college. Susana has many impressions about Reading High School.

Susana speaks about RMHS.

"The school's so big, and the corridors are so long."

"All of the kids are very friendly."

"There's more time for fun after school here than at home, where school doesn't get out until 5:30."

Rocket Hi-Lites

REPORTERS

Under the direction of Mr. Hodgkins, Rocket Hi-Lites meets during the activity period Mondays and Wednesdays. To become a member of a Hi-Lite staff, one needs at least a B in English and an interest in newspaper work or creative writing. All prospective members are carefully screened by the editors and advisers. Hi-Lites teaches the students the principles of good journalism, the practice of these principles by the publication of a quarterly newspaper, and an appreciation of staff organization. The hard work that goes into the publishing of four issues a year was rewarded by a Second Class Award from the National Scholastic Press Association. This year Linda Hubbard, the capable editor-in-chief of Hi-Lites, and several members of her editorial staff have attended monthly news meetings sponsored by the Boston Globe. Programs for these meetings have been provided by such interesting speakers as Richard Rodgers, Oscar Hammerstein II, and sportswriter Red Smith.

At last, after three long years of waiting, it was the Class of 1959's turn to publish the Pioneer. In the fall, the Art and Literary editors met to plan the yearbook. They lacked experience, but they were determined to make this year's book the best ever. After a great deal of discussion, a theme was decided upon. Then the actual planning and work began. A dummy of the book had to be made, and a page by page outline was completed.

Throughout the course of the year, the editors discovered that the work of producing an outstanding yearbook involved many people. The Art Staff, with the expert advice of Miss Roy, did the layouts which provided us with attractive and well balanced pages. The Literary Staff, capably guided by Miss Stembridge, wrote all of the copy and cutlines for the book. Every member of this staff tried to make his copy interesting and lively. Without the unceasing efforts of the Business and Typing Staffs, this yearbook wouldn't have been possible. With Mr. Lorden advising the Business Staff, its competent members canvassed the town to obtain advertisements. The Typing Staff transferred sometimes unreadable longhand into neatly typed copy for the printer. Many long hours were spent by the Homeroom Collectors in obtaining subscriptions, thus assuring us of a successful yearbook. The Profile Staff busied itself with collecting information about the members of the senior class. With Mrs. Conti as adviser, the members of this staff proceeded to use their talents to write the brief biographical sketches which appear under each picture in the Senior Section.

By actual participation in yearbook work, the members of the Junior Art and Literary Staff have gained a great deal of experience which they can put to use in the publication of next year's Pioneer.

History

Behind us lie four of the happiest and most profitable years of our lives. A few short years ago, we, as freshmen, embarked on the start of a long journey that was to take us into a land of knowledge. On September 19, 1955, as we filed into the auditorium to be assigned to our homerooms, we realized for the first time how challenging and exciting our journey was to be. We saw the way beginning to unfold before us. As we were told of the countless opportunities which a sound education can provide, we suddenly discovered that our journey along the road of education could be only as profitable as we chose to make it. We set our goals and considered carefully the best means to attain them. Our freshman year was filled with new experiences. One of these was the election of our class officers with Bob Burpee as president, Fred Squire as vice-president, Mary Ellen Sias as secretary, and Kenneth Mullen as treasurer. Through them we were having our first chance at managing our own affairs; never had we been entrusted with so much responsibility. Who of us can forget that wonderful feeling that comes with the first high school dance? It is the feeling of growing up and of entering a whole new world. When the Shares in Democracy campaign came along, we freshmen eagerly participated. We showed our enthusiasm by cheering at sports events and by trying out for the various athletic teams, and we fairly burst with pride when the freshman basketball team entered the Eastern Massachusetts Junior Headmasters' Tournament at the Boston Garden. At the end of our freshman year, we felt that we had successfully completed the first stage of our journey.

With the sophomore year there came added responsibility. Now we, too, had to set an example for the incoming freshmen. The way along our journey began to wind and curve, and we faced new challenges and more difficult tasks. In our classes, the teachers expected more of us. As sophomores we were able to participate in many more activities than we could as freshmen. The competition for membership in the Baton Squad was keen; nevertheless, many of our sophomore girls were chosen for this honor. A successful Sophomore Hop was the result of long hours of planning and hard work by the members of the various committees. Yet the days slipped by, and soon we left school for the summer, looking forward to our junior year.

When for the third time we returned to school, we were suddenly awed by the thought that we had only two more years in which to prove ourselves. With a new determination we continued on our journey. This was the year in which we began to inquire about colleges and to investigate career opportunities. As juniors we had our first experience with College Board Examinations. Through the efforts of all who participated in the town-wide campaign of collecting money for the Foreign Student Exchange Program, Peter Stevenson was able to go to Norway as a representative of our school and of our country. With the spring there came two outstanding social events: the Junior Prom and the Junior-Senior Reception. Oh, how we wanted those happy moments to linger; we almost wished we could stop our journey at this point. However, we soon realized the impossibility of this, and once again we continued on our way. School ended, and during the summer months, we eagerly awaited the arrival of the fall and our last year in high school.

Senior year — the most exciting and challenging part of our journey. This was the year to choose especially well-qualified leaders. With Bob Burpee, Ronnie Chess, Laurel Calvin, and Kenneth Mullen as our class officers, we couldn't possibly fail to progress a great distance into the land of knowledge. The days were filled with making out college applications, studying for College Board Exams, and getting ready for our rapidly approaching graduation. Mid-years marked the beginning of our busiest time. Meetings were held, and plans were made for graduation week. Finally our classes were over. At last that memorable evening of the Senior Prom was upon us. Never have the decorations at any dance been so beautiful. We could have stayed all night dancing amid such splendor.

While we are gaily whirling through the events of this happy season, we are unaware that one of the most beautiful events in our lifetime is about to take place — graduation. With all of its thrilling solemnity, it marks the highest point in our journey. It is as if we are standing on a hill and we are able to look back over the road we have traveled and can, for a brief moment, relive our school days. With the passing of the torch from the hands of Bob Burpee into those of the president of the class of 1960, we realize that it has lighted the way for our journey. Its symbolism is clear to us now: our torch has stood for the spirit of our school. Without it our journey would have had no meaning. Our teachers, too, deserve recognition, for without their aid, we never could have made this journey. There also comes the sudden realization that the world is ours, that we are the hope of the future.

Our journey isn't over. The road stretches out endlessly before us to lead us deeper and deeper into our land of knowledge. Ahead there may be many pitfalls, but we are confident that we shall avoid them, for we have had excellent training at Reading Memorial High School, and we are prepared to meet the future.

18 Baker Road

After nursing and Bible school, Bev would like to be a missionary nurse . . . found French with Miss Chiesa most enjoyable . . . volleyball and field hockey round out Bev's busy life.

Having completed three major stages of education, we seniors are ready to venture out into the adult world. Our high school years are comparable to the assembling of a three-stage rocket. As freshmen, our rocket was just a vision beginning to take shape. With the sophomore year came more intensive planning, resulting in the satisfactory completion of the second stage of our rocket. Then at last we finished our junior year. The building of the rocket was completed. All that remained was the launching, and in our last high school year, we made preparations for the event.

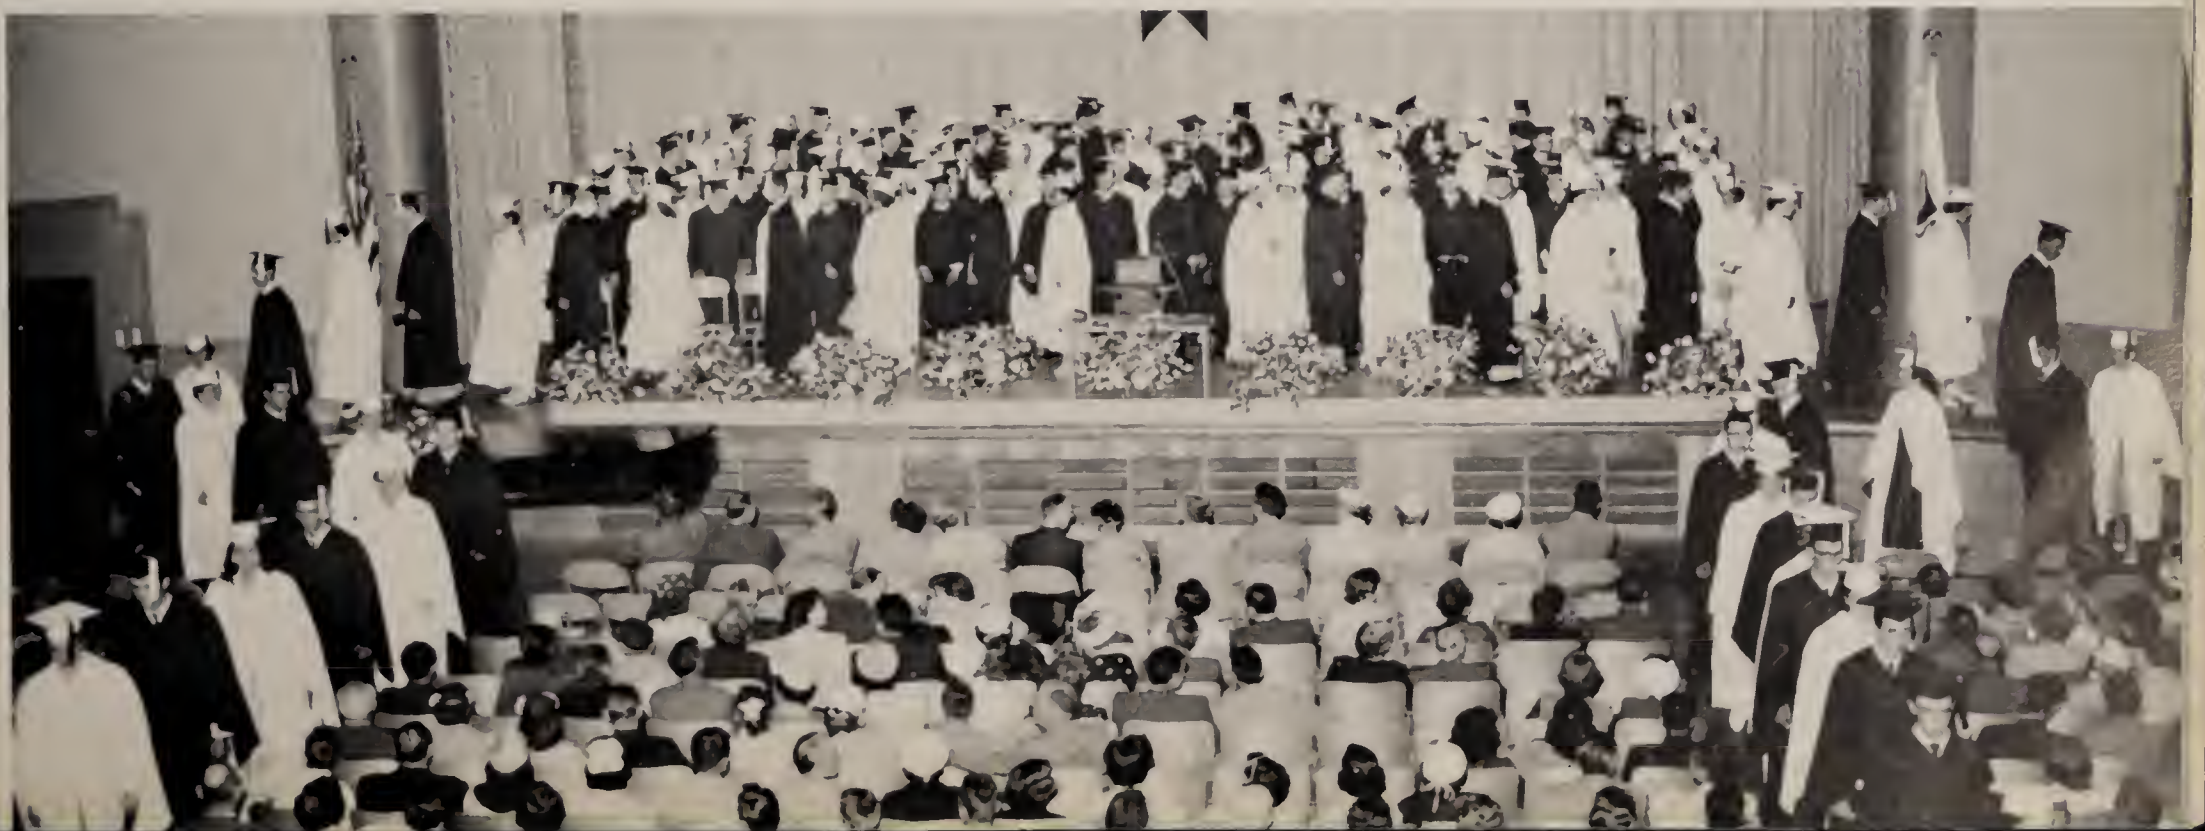

Our teachers, parents, and friends have helped to prepare us for our forthcoming journey. Still it is up to us as individuals to develop our abilities in order to succeed in life. All fears of the unknown are dispelled when we see our rocket soar far off into space. Yet this is only the beginning of the journey. We have set our goals, and now we must strive to attain them. We are ever confident that we shall not fail in meeting whatever challenges life may present, for we have been trained well. Because we are launched from such a solid platform of education, we shall be better able to fulfill all our hopes and dreams and to contribute our best to the American way of life.

As we look back on our senior year we remember . . .

work — and fun — in class . . .

considering our future plans . . .

refueling for . . .

more classes . . .

and more learning . . .

with respite to exchange senior pictures . . .

and exchange students.

We'll think of the rest of you as you go through the daily school routine . . .

walking to school with a classmate . . .

getting a late slip because you talked faster than you walked . . .

settling down in study hall . . .

pausing in passing to see if you made the baton squad . . .

before taking Mr. D'Orlando's test.

We hope you, too, will have some excitement like and throughout our town, we meet OUR ADVERTISERS

Our friendly advertisers again welcome us!

The Business Staff posed and ready to meet all advertisers!

"Ads or no ads the whole staff won't fit in the car!"

Meanwhile, Priscilla stays in the Rocket Corner Shop to sell supplies!

"While they're getting the ad, let's go in and buy something."

"Jean, will you make up your mind!"

"Steve, you paste up the ads we have, while we get more!"

OUR REWARD

as Official Photographer for the Class of 1959 is in knowing that the students at Reading High School have received the finest in Photographic service.

IN YEARS TO COME

we would enjoy working with the graduating class and yearbook staff as much as we have this year.

NEXT YEAR

let us assist you.

A thank you to our advertisers, who helped make this book possible.

We got the ad . . . and a pizza.

"O.K. I'll take the ad, but are you sure your father said you can charge this?"

"No, Bill isn't holding up the bank . . . just getting an ad."

"Whew, after that hard day's work it's time for a 'pause that refreshes'."

And to end a perfect day, home-room 7 pays for its yearbooks.

Autographs

We wish to thank the Reading Chronicle for the use of some football candid; the Lawrence Daily Eagle for the Drama Festival candid; and the Yerkes Observatory for the photo used on end sheets.
